

Until we Accept

Until we accept that as humanity, we are not master, lord or superior to another race or species.

Or another living planet.

Only then can we merge with God our Maker: and acknowledge change as a constant mechanism of growth.

Transforming by choice, our own ills, beliefs, dogma, ideology, and philosophy.

And live-in complete harmony of self, truly interconnected and bonding with each other.

Contributing through our individual roles universally.

A true cohesion of mind, soul and spirit, and life eternal.

By

Raymond Peter Luke

www.qibp.co.za