

As Creators

That investigate all avenue, and conclude the difference. Between the interest of self, and the collective self.

We create according to our image and likeness of such. We imprint our nature and consistency's, into the minds of our children. And many sometimes into the minds of society.

We create, form, define, and refine. With purpose.

To the end of control and dominion. Armed with knowledge of all that is dual, and opposing. To bring about a third master life. Equipped with separation, dogma, rule, instruction, economic, spatial, sustenance and automated systems. Ready to use, on the greater population.

Arisen, created, and nurtured.

To the interest of self. And some to a wider objective. Over many millions of societies, that have come and gone before us. It has become the definition of insanity. And the result, the history of humanity, has proven this.

And a few that pursue, the harmony of self, within the greater collective self. Sounds like it is time, to pursue this route. Hence our roles should be, defined as keepers of progressive change. As preservers, of fundamentals. As maintainers of consistency, of our progressive current self. And evolutionists of the collective self.

Identifying the correct time, and environment needed.

It seems that this is, what is, needed. To advance, to preserve nature, and to pursue the greater galaxy. And make home, within the advance of time.
