

Nothing is ever broken.

Nothing ever is broken in nature. Everything is permitted. All is selected. All is progress.

Humankind, the creators that evolved from nature. And claimed right, entitlement, control, and territory. They claimed superiority. Developed a language that nature could not understand, its words.

Humankind dominated. And ruled amongst themselves, and others with fear. They learned to be intelligent, and perfected mastery over nature, themselves. And other species. They then turned, and drove other species to extinction.

Humankind learned, by the intent focus on, natural selection. The fittest and strongest survives, and has right. To control scarcity, environment, and territory. This hunger, will eventually become, the consuming downfall of humanity. From within. Humankind, will turn on itself.

The myth of a half human, half dragon. A long slim body, that has the power to crush its prey. Consuming itself.

With a sound, that echoes through the ages. The mind of that beast, will scream outrage, and demand a feed. Having nothing else to feed upon. The beast of humanity, from within will consume itself. It will eat its own tail.

The structure of its very bones, that held it tall, and enabled it powerful. Will be stuck in its throat. Chocking it. The body will starve itself. Eventually this beast will pass, to the annuals of history, a legend.

And nature will allow humanity to begin anew. Humanity will restart again. This time slightly different. A variation.

Nature's tolerance, and its capacity to teach humankind, over billions of years. Is remarkable, set in stone. That the nature of being separate, dependent, and interconnected at the same time. That all has purpose. All has its time. Is often mis-understood by humanity.

Nature understands that, all has within, the source, consciousness, mind, spirit, and soul. Nature has taught humanity, by its own failures. And the essence that allows all life, to evolve. And this recording is the blueprint, that carries all matter forward. All nature.

This is my ever-increasing story, my self-study notes, my theory. My home brewed psychology. And I cease not, to learn. And to add. And to grow.

By Raymond Peter Luke

www.qibp.co.za